AMERICAN REINFORCEMENTS STREAM ACROSS THE RHINE TOWARD HEART OF REICH; GERMAN RADIO FRANTICALLY TRIES TO REASSURE PEOPLE; PRISONERS TAKEN IN HORDES

Resistance

PEOPLE BEWILDERED

Prisoners Are Waved To Rear by Allies Too Busy To Escort Them

By International News Service PARIS, Mar. 9.—American First army reinforcements streamed westward over the Rhine toward the heart of the Reich today to follow a spectacular surprise crossing of the last great natural barrier separating the Allies from the core Naziland.

Assault units already were along the east bank of the Rhine in strength, punching eastward and winning out both north and south strengthening the bridgehead established south of Cologne.

The German radio made an attempt to reassure the bewildered German populace confronted with this disaster by broadcasting a statement that "there will soon be change on the eastern front, after which we will be able to turn our attention to the west."

Forces of the First Army commanded by Lieut. Gen. Courtney H.
Odgers maintained steady advances in the area south of Euskirchen, eight miles west of Bonn, and also northwest of Bonn which was rapidly being cleared of enemy forces.
German resistance showed signs of slipping in the whole area.

Further west, however, toward the rear where Lieut. Gen. Patton's Third Army is battling, the Germans fought stiffly against American infantry divisions.

The infantry followed up behind mored units of Gen. Patton's army which have already reached the Rhine southwest of Coblenz.
In the north, units of the U. S.
Ninth Army and the Canadian First army continued to whittle down the German bridgehead on the west bank of the Rhine opposite Wesel.

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY
EAST OF THE RHINE, Mar. 9.— (INS)—American troops plunged east, north and south into the German heartland today after crossing the Rhine at a small town south of Cologne.

In an amazing new-born D-Day high surprised American Army commanders as much as it did the Germans, an infantry company led by Lieut. Carl Timmerman, of West Point, Neb., carved the first foothold on the east bank of the mighty river stream Wednesday.

Hours after the virtually spontaneous crossing at 3.50 p. m., the enemy remained too stunned to offer more than a panicky splat-ter of artillery fire as American troops and materials poured into the bridgehead.

Timmerman's company, which picked up two prisoners on the way across the river and left a large load more drifting on the Rhine to be picked up later, occupied the picturesque little Rhineland town in a surprise move that caught the Germans off guard.

Timmerman's suffered no casualties from the brief bursts of enemy machine-gun, pistol and other small arms fire. Citizens of a village nestling between the river's east bank and a towering bluff hung on.

THE SAWBUCK

Of course it's quite possible to saw wood without a sawbuck.
Good-sized trunks can be attacked right on the ground, provided the attacker is willing to get down to that level. Smaller stuff can be poised on a stump and the job of cutting it into lengths will go fairly well as long as the piece consents to keep its balance.

But it is much better to have a sawbuck to get the wood in a position where the man with the saw can operate with some comfort and to hold the billet secure while he is working. The rankest amateur, trying to get his woodpile to the size he wants, soon realizes the force of this simple truth.

The truth is simple enough, but there are certain complications connected with it. The question is where to get a saw-buck. Probably the best solution, for the beginner, is to get someone to make one for him. A saw-buck is such a primitive affair, however, that anyone should be able to knock one together. The decision, therefore, is to go ahead and do it.

Then, for the tyro, trouble begins. Finding the necessary pieces of two-by-four should be easy but it proves otherwise. When they are collected, and the bracing lumber as well, it is time to worry about nails. Worry is the word, because the nails must be long and stout. Then the problem of how high the thing should be—and how to get it that high—must be solved.

All of these difficulties can be satisfactorily surmounted, and they usually are. But by the time the job is done it is getting dark, and the ambitious woodcutter is too tired, anyhow, to do anything but admire his handiwork.
But he does a lot of that. Great thing, a sawbuck, when you make it yourself!

SHIFT FROM CITIES

A decentralization of industry seems to be in progress in this country that will increase in postwar years. This decentralization was in progress before the war, brought about by improved highway and transportation systems, greater accessibility of raw materials and improved living conditions.

In the days to come the great cities will face more severe competition from medium-sized cities and small towns. Industrial and rural America will become more interdependent. All this will be a spur to more practical and efficient industrial building in the great cities.

For the first time in a postwar period, many economists believe, there will not be a bulge in big city populations after this conflict.
Humanity, with more elbow room in its daily living, if with fewer bright lights, will be the happier for it.

Danes are reported to have waged an effective war of nerves against invading Nazis simply by grinning at them. Regardless of which extreme is adopted in treatment of a Nazi, he cannot take it.

VANDENBERG'S OPPORTUNITY

of small European nations, and culminating in the insurgent attitude of France, there is strong suspicion that the proposed international organization is precisely what Prime Minister Churchill said it must not become — a "dictatorship of the Great Powers."

The fact that neither Roosevelt nor Churchill has thus far made public the terms of the agreements on a host of important and delicate problems, and that criticism thus far largely has been stifled or drowned out, is not reassuring.

Few serious-minded persons would question the statement that any true world-peace program must be, to paraphrase the words of Wilson, "an open covenant openly arrived at."

Only suspicion and jealousy can result from the suppression of important details of the peace plans—and even of the fact that serious and violent objection is being raised in many quarters.

Merely by laying before the world, in measured and judicious terms, the fact that there are thus and such objections to the program, emanating from such and such sources, Senator Vandenberg could render invaluable service in clearing the air.

The problem is too serious for this not to be done.
If a workable plan of peace can be evolved, the world may hope to live in peace for generations.

If an unsound and topheavy program is adopted, it promises only an interlude between the present World War and another which would be still more murderously destructive.

The objective has been stated by President Roosevelt in the following words: "A peace... base on the sound and just principles of the Atlantic Charter—on the conception of the dignity of the human being — on the guarantees of the tolerance and freedom of religious worship."

Assuming that the President means what he said, he stands to benefit, as much as anyone else, from whatever tests the existing agreements on the question of whether they are based on the principles he has outlined — and Senator Vandenberg's work at the San Francisco conference may serve exactly that purpose.

War Mothers Chapter Pays Visit To Wounded Veterans

Bristol Chapter of American War Mothers on Wednesday paid a visit to wounded veterans at Valley Forge Hospital. Those making the journey: Mrs. Joseph Ellis, Mrs. Frank Wolfinger, Mrs. Marvin Dyer, Mrs. Robert Moss.

The women presented a knitted afghan to Sgt. Arthur Boettcher, a veteran who is blind and who has also lost both of his lower limbs. At Christmas time Phila. Chapter of War Mothers presented a wheel chair to Sgt. Boettcher. The localities visited the wards for the blind on Wednesday.

Home-made cake, cookies, apples, cigarettes and pipe tobacco were distributed to the men.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. George C. Tibbets of Bensalem Township

Lord Jesus Christ, prepare our hearts for the coming day of worship. Thou art our rock, our fortress, our high tower of salvation. Wherever we may be we can find Thee. Our arms of faith circle the world. In prayer unto Thee we are united with our loved ones for even so do they pray. Go with us, Lord, wherever we may be. The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of His Son Jesus Christ our Lord; and the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, be amongst you, and remain with you always. Amen.

ROHM & HAAS LOSES TO ARMY AIR FORCE FIVE; SCORE, 55-30

Chemical Mixers Until Half Time Kept Within Scoring Distance

KEHNER, GRIFFIN STAR

Rice Led the Losers, Scoring Eight Points in Game

The Rohm and Haas dribblers again were troubled by the 802nd Army Air Force, Specialized Depot, of Camden, last night on the Social Club floor. Final score was: AAF, 55; Rohm and Haas, 30.

Up until half-time, the chemical mixers kept within scoring distance of the visitors' total but from the second half on, it was just a matter of time with the AAF increasing their score as the game progressed.

W. Kehner and Griffin led the army men in scoring with 17 and 11 points, respectively. Rice led the losers with eight points. Rohm and Haas committed 31 fouls with Rice, Berlinhof, and Nicolo going out via the personal foul route.

In the preliminary game, the Rohm and Haas ladies lost to the RCA team, of Camden, 26-16. A last quarter spurt gave the Victor sextet the triumph after Rohm and Haas had come within six points of tying the score.

The proceeds of the game were given to the Bucks County Rescue Squad Iron Lung Fund.

COMMANDOES WIN OVER THE SEABEES

In games played in the Bristol High School Junior League, the Commandos triumphed over the Seabees, 23-19, and the Air Corps won their second straight game by topping the Snipers, 29-12. "Jimmy" Sottile led the latter team to victory with 19 points while Martin was high scorer for the Commandos with 12 points.

The Marines, led by Val Bielecki, beat the Navy five, 21-15, and Cavalry closed the afternoon with a torrefied victory over the Coast Guard.

The Air Corps and Commandos are now deadlocked for first place in the second half race with two victories each. Four teams, Sea Bees, Snipers, Marines and Cavalry have won a game and lost a game while the Coast Guard and Navy have dropped two each.

Outlining the qualities which go to make up a good athlete Coach Smith said an athlete must possess the following qualities: intelligence, co-ordination, courage, endurance, obedience, loyalty and cooperation.

"Col. Ted Banks and Col. Hickey, both former coaches, told me that they look for these qualities in the men they are now training for officers and flyers," Smith declared.

"And they added that these qualities can best be developed by participation in competitive sports."
In answering the question, "Should we have athletics after the war?", Coach Smith said, "If we do, and we should, I believe we will have more good boys and young men, and when these future athletes go out into the world to make a living both the business and the professional worlds cannot help but feel the benefit of this athletic training."

Monday, is expected to be felt in the Bristol area.
Acting Area WMC director, Levy Anderson, declared the move is necessary to bolster failing war production in the district. Labeling the program "war service transfer," Anderson declared:

"While sponsored by the War Manpower Commission, the plan is a joint effort made possible through patriotic co-operation by labor, management, Federal agencies and the armed services."

The men will be placed in war plants in Philadelphia, Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery counties, he said. They will be taken from 1254 plants in 48 less essential industries which the WMC recently inventoried.

World War II veterans are exempt from transfers, he added.

Told to hold course and that searchlight was now on. Pilot thought could see light but gas about gone. Plane overhead at 1145Z and told to land to northwest but pilot lost field and shot more flares. Pilot told runway lights on and flares going up from ground. Gunner spotted field at seven o'clock position. Searchlight again turned on directly over field, pilot told to let down from 12,500 feet and told again of mountains. x x x x Ground operator talked pilot down, telling him how to fly let-down procedure, gave altimeter setting as plane passed over field at 1153Z.

"At 1155Z operator still talking plane down. At 1158Z operator again asked plane's elevation and told plane to circle field once but to let-down faster. Pilot said couldn't do it in one circle. Operator said don't widen circle. Pilot increased let-down, approached fast but told he had 5,000-foot runway. Plane landed on ground at 1205Z, fuel gone, engines all out. Plane towed from field."

Two engines failed directly over the field. Capt. DeLong dived the aircraft for the landing strip and came to earth on the last one-third of a runway not designed to handle Superfortresses. The brakes fortunately held and the giant bomber stopped rolling a few feet from a 16 foot ditch at the end of the field. The next day the Superfort was flown to its base.

white bedsheets from their windows in token of surrender.

The higher echelon of the American command, ranging from corps to army and to army group, was completely startled when news of the historic crossing was flashed to them.

"It was hard to tell just who decided what or who gave the orders," grinned Maj. H. Z. Mackenzie, of Chicago. "It sure came as a bolt from the blue to those back at headquarters."

"They gave the okay, said go ahead if you think you can make it. A few minutes later they made it all right, and look at the darn thing now!"

News that more than a company of American soldiers was dug in on the Rhine's east bank changed military strategy along the entire river front. Columns heading elsewhere headed back toward the bridgehead and others moved swiftly to protect its flanks.

Sucker fishing . . . from all reports sucker fishing is excellent at the present time. Daily creel limits have been taken at many spots along the Neshaminy Creek, with a great many anglers congregating at Holmesville and Bridgetown. The Delaware River, from Trenton on up, has produced some fine catches. Just below the lower bridge in Trenton New Jersey fishermen have been experiencing big catches.

More on the proposed merger of the Fish and Game Commissions from the March 1st issue of the Bucks County Sportsman is printed in the following article: "The Board of Directors of the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, at their meeting in Harrisburg on February 17th, turned down the suggestion for a merger at this time, and Senate Bill No. 280, sponsored by Senator Cox of Allegheny County, should thereby die in Committee. However, the idea has not been dropped entirely, as Senate Bill No. 283, sponsored by Senator Crowe of Monroe County, proposes to create a Commission of six members of the General Assembly, three from the Senate and three from the House, to make a complete study of the problem of conservation of wildlife and natural resources in the Commonwealth; and a thorough investigation of the present efforts made by the Commonwealth in connection with such conservation. The Commission shall make a report of the result of such study and investigation to the next session of the General Assembly. An appropriation of $5,000 for the payment of expense is provided."

Date to remember . . . next Tuesday evening, March 13th, the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will meet in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Radcliffe and Walnut streets, at 8:30. Although the meeting will take the form of a business session many interesting items are scheduled for discussion. All sportsmen have a cordial invitation to attend.

National Wildlife Week . . . first proclaimed by President Roosevelt in 1938 and sponsored annually since then by the National Wildlife Federation, will begin March 18th of this year. The underlying theme for speakers, the press and radio during Wildlife Week will be the relation between soil, water and plant control and wildlife conservation.

Stress will also be placed on postwar projects to meet increased demands for hunting and fishing after millions of service men and women return to civilian life. Pennsylvania is taking a leading part in this program. Seth Gordon, Executive Director of the Game Commission, speaking in Allentown on February 8th, outlined a program in which the State Game Commission has already set aside a fund of $1,250,000 from its funds to improve 825,000 acres of public game lands and improve general hunting conditions here in Pennsylvania.

Also, Charles A. French of the Fish Commission, announced recently that the anglers of the Commonwealth have a nest egg of three quarters of a million dollars earmarked for postwar improvement of public fishing.

advice. That people are interested in the trivialities of everyday life is attested by "fan mail" he receives, such as when he dealt in length on the subject of a four-minute egg, and how an egg not boiled to suit the taste could make or break a man's day.

He contended that "The tragedies of the front page would not be so important except against the background of the small things of our daily lives. People are interested in little things." Then, turning attention to fellowship of the people of the world, fellowship of groups, of neighbors and so on into a broader society, Mr. Rose said "Fellowship is so important. The obvious thing is so easily forgotten in planning a better world. The thing which makes everything worthwhile and which gives them permanence is fellowship. Fellowship is the home of the world. It is the important thing. . . . And so today's big story isn't in the newspaper. It is not that we have crossed the Rhine, or that the British have taken Mandalay. The important thing is this meeting together tonight, and thousands of meetings like it all over the world. They enable us to get along with people. . . . Let us learn to know each other. Let us be cheerful. Those who look on the gloomy side walk in a shadow of their own making." A vocal solo, "Indian Love Call," sung by Mrs. Leonard Dyer, was much appreciated. She was accompanied by Mrs. Wallace Ward, fine arts chairman, who also had charge of the evening program. Decorations were arranged by Miss Mary LaRue.
